

READINGS THIS WEEKEND

- (1) Genesis 14, 18-20
- (2) 1 Corinthians 11, 23-26
- (3) Luke 9, 11-17

It is true that each of us have gifts that differ. Some have many more material goods than others. Some are blessed with artistic abilities while others "can barely draw breath, have two left feet and can't carry a tune in a bucket." Some live long and busy lives and others struggle with health or disabilities. The celebration of the body and blood of Christ reminds us that though our gifts differ we can all give the same great gift that God has given us. Jesus became the gift he gave. We have life through his body and blood. We, too, can become the gift we give. Our return to the Lord cannot be measured in dollars and cents or by artistic merit or by length of days. Our return to the Lord must be marked by the selflessness of our giving. Our use of time, talent and treasure must be patterned after the sacrificial gift given to us by Christ. When we learn to become the sustenance for one another we truly become the Body of Christ which we celebrate.

REMINDER: The acceptable dress of the day for almost any occasion, (short shorts, revealing tops, ragged jeans, etc.) seems to be ultra casual. Please keep this in mind when dressing for attendance at Mass so that the proper respect is shown to our Lord and to our people. This dress code is expected/required for anyone serving in any capacity on the altar. Thank you. – Heads of Ministries

Please bring in your broken, used or even new rosaries. It doesn't matter what shape they're in. Beads of Peace have pieces and parts from thousands of rosaries to use for repair. There is a small basket sitting on the cabinets to the right as you enter the Undercroft. For more information you may e-mail them at wrp@trib.com.

JUST A THOUGHT

(Dolores Sizemore)

There is a room in church that few people have ever seen but this room is second only to one other. It is the sacristy and is second only to the sanctuary with the altar, on which the sacrament of the Eucharist takes place, the tabernacle, in which the extra consecrated hosts are housed and the pulpit or ambo, from which sacred Scripture is read at Mass. It is from this room that the altar is prepared for Mass, Weddings, Funerals, and Baptisms.

During the recent necessary cost cutting activity, I discovered that there is no budget for the sacristy. The sacristans "make do" with what they have and rarely purchase anything new. There are things that are needed and things that are wanted to make our church and the Eucharistic sacrifice of the Mass even more beautiful.

My thought is this: why not offer, to the parishioners, a chance to choose a needed or wanted item as a memorial to a loved one. The price of some of the items, while somewhat costly, are not prohibitively so. True, they won't be as extravagant as the beautiful stained glass windows but they will be things sorely needed. So, beginning in this bulletin, we will list these items and their cost (as accurately as possible) and, we hope, that some kind persons will select the item they would like to donate. We will announce, in the bulletin, who made the gift unless they wish to remain anonymous. We hope that you will consider this thought and let one of the sacristans, Gail, or Fr. Tony know that you would like to help. We will show you the item or items in the church supply catalog so you will know exactly what it is you will be paying for.

As you consider this idea, may I suggest that you stay after Mass some Saturday or Sunday and ask the sacristan on duty to show you the sacristy and the vestry downstairs, which is really an extension of the sacristy upstairs.

*Respectfully yours,
The Sacristans of St. Paul*
